

I don't believe that showing an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is in the public interest. We need facts, not distortions. I plan to watch something on both presidential candidates tonight on PBS -- we'll get a balanced view of who they are.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
